IRONSIDES Partners LLC

PIMCO Dynamic Credit Income Fund Investor Presentation

April 2015

Ironsides: About Us

Ironsides Partners LLC is a Boston-based U.S.-registered investment adviser specializing in asset value investing. Ironsides focuses on closed end funds, holding companies and corporate restructurings.

Ironsides Partners' Founder and CIO, Robert C. Knapp, has been investing in Closed End Funds for over 17 years.

Funds advised by Ironsides Partners own over $10,000,000 worth of common shares of PIMCO Dynamic Credit Income Fund (NYSE: PCI).

Our nominees are truly independent of PIMCO and its parent Allianz.

Ironsides: Why are We Doing This?

Ironsides has no interest in PCI other than as a shareholder.

Ironsides is taking these actions to benefit all shareholders.

Our goals:

- Decreasing the discount
- Improving performance
- Reducing the embedded risk
- Improving corporate governance: our nominees are truly independent

PCI: Hold PIMCO Accountable

PCI has traded at a discount nearly from inception.

- Launched in January 2013 the fund fell from an 8.5% premium in February 2013 to an 8% discount in June 2013 and traded at a discount since that time.
- PCI's shares are trading more than 17% below its $25 IPO price.
- PCI has total assets exceeding $5 billion in highly liquid securities, there is no excuse for tolerating a 10% discount.
- PCI has underperformed despite aggressive leverage which should have improved returns.

PCI's board continues to insist no action is necessary.

Ironsides seeks your support to elect two highly qualified, independent, engaged and effective nominees to PCI's board.

- New ideas and fresh perspective are needed to improve PCI's management and performance.
- PCI's own Proxy states that incumbent independent nominees serve on the boards and are compensated by 92 PIMCO or PIMCO affiliated funds.
- If elected, our nominees would comprise a minority of PCI's board

PCI: Large Discount & Dismal Stock Performance

PCI has disappointed almost from inception

- Launched in January 2013 at $25 per share and has traded recently below $20.50 per share, more than 17% below its IPO price. The price drop represents a loss in market value of over $500 million.
- The fund fell from an 8.5% premium in February 2013 to an 8% discount in June 2013 and traded at a discount since that time.

PCI's total return since launch lags the broad bond market, generating a total return of approximately 1.8%, compared to the Barclays US Aggregate index (ticker: LBUSTRUU) which generated a total return of 5.8% during this same period.

Return Data: Morningstar Multisector Rank as of March 26, 2015

Leverage Data: Calculated by Ironsides using publicly disclosed information from SEC filings (Total Assets / Net Assets)

Despite its high leverage, PCI returns are more than 10% below the top multi-sector fund

Seven other PIMCO-managed funds rank above PCI

Why does the board allow PCI to languish?

PCI: Risky Returns

PCI's Performance is Mediocre – Especially Considering its Leverage

PIMCO boasts about its performance, claiming PCI is outperforming “peers”, but they fail to acknowledge the significant use of leverage and derivatives such as credit default swaps (CDS) to earn those returns.

PIMCO is taking substantial risks with PCI Shareholder funds, which they do not adequately explain.

- As of December 31, 2014 leverage stood at 1.8x as measured by the ratio of Total Assets / Net Assets or $5.66 billion / $3.13 billion
- During 2014, PIMCO wrote default protection on Russia government bonds while Putin annexed the Crimea and invaded Ukraine
- PIMCO also wrote default insurance on issuers such as Petrobras of Brazil, which is mired in a corruption scandal that is destabilizing the Brazilian government.
- Russia and Brazil default exposure totals over $115 million which is on the books at a value of $10.7 million.

PCI: Discount is at Bottom of PIMCO Funds

PCI is languishing at the widest discount of any PIMCO closed-end bond fund, in stark contrast to others at significant premiums and an average premium of over +10%. PCI is trading at more than 20% below the average.

Why does the PCI board allow its shares to languish at a wide discount?

Discount to NAV Harms Shareholders

PIMCO as fund manager receives its fees based on NAV.

PIMCO was paid over $63 million in management fees by shareholders in 2014.

Meanwhile, as of March 26, 2015 the discount to NAV represented $2.38 per share of lost value, or a total of over $326 million in lost shareholder funds.

Shareholders rely on share price to realize a return on their investment when they determine to sell their shares.

While PIMCO continues to enjoy fees despite the discount, shareholders continue to suffer!

PCI has an Undefined Strategy

Why does PIMCO defend PCI's performance?

PIMCO has never articulated a clear strategy for PCI except “to earn current income” and states that it will utilize a “dynamic asset allocation strategy among multiple fixed-income sectors in the global credit markets, including corporate debt, mortgage-related and other asset-backed securities.”

- No stated benchmark
- No stated geographic focus
- No credit quality focus
- No duration focus

Lipper classifies PCI as a Global Income Fund, because any fund which invests in issuers “located in at least three countries, one of which may be the United States” is considered “Global”. However Morningstar ranks PCI among “multi-sector” funds, which matches the description above much better.

PCI's Board Must Be Held Accountable

In a letter to shareholders dated March 13, 2015, addressing the discount to NAV, PIMCO stated that “[W]hile the Fund’s shares have traded at a discount to net asset value, we largely attribute this to the volatile market environment that followed the launch of the Fund in 2013, when the Fed announced the tapering of its monthly purchase program.”

PIMCO went on to state in the same letter that “To date, the Board has determined not to take actions such as share repurchases or tender offers because the Board believes such actions generally fail to provide lasting benefits for long-term shareholders. The Board and PIMCO take a long-term view and believe that NAV performance is the appropriate way to value return and that strong NAV returns and attractive distributions result in robust total returns for shareholders in the long run.”

The Board and PIMCO do not acknowledge there is a problem and simply make excuses. They are not taking action.

PIMCO's Excuses are Unacceptable

PIMCO makes excuses that the discount to NAV is due to “volatile market conditions.”

But other funds, including other funds managed by PIMCO, have successfully navigated this same volatility and trade at a premium!

As shown in the chart on page 6, PCI's performance ranks near the bottom of Morningstar's multi-sector bond fund peer group, and below seven other PIMCO funds.

These performance results are particularly poor in light of PCI's significantly higher leverage than the average leverage ratio in the Morningstar peer group.

With PCI's high level of leverage and use of derivatives, PCI's returns should have been significantly higher.

PIMCO is in Disarray

In September 2014, William “Bill” Gross resigned from PIMCO.

Mr. Gross was a founder and CIO of PIMCO.

Mr. Gross’ departure caused considerable turmoil at PIMCO, illustrated perhaps best by the withdrawal of $268 billion in assets from its mutual funds and accounts during 2014.

Ironsides believes that the departure of the guiding light of PIMCO would provide a reason for the Board to reconsider retaining PIMCO as the Fund’s investment manager, particularly in light of PCI’s persistent discount and disappointing returns.

Truly Independent Trustees are Needed

PCI's own Proxy states that incumbent independent nominees serve on the boards of, and are compensated by, 92 PIMCO or PIMCO affiliated funds.

The independent nominees are paid over $200,000/year from PIMCO for their service with PCI and the other funds.

Complacency becomes complicity: Current actions suggest incumbent directors allegiance is to PIMCO, not PCI's shareholders.

The current trustees have not, and cannot, properly and effectively serve PCI's shareholders.

Shareholders Deserve Better

PCI Shareholders Deserve:

- Directors that represent them, not PIMCO.
- Directors whose interests are aligned with shareholders.
- Effective, engaged oversight of the Fund manager.
- A fair price for their investment when they decide it is time to sell – whether they choose to sell or need to sell.
- Reasonable action to eliminate the discount to NAV at which PCI's shares trade.

Ironsides' Nominees Will Represent ALL Shareholders

If elected, Ironsides nominees will work to:

- Initiate a share repurchase program to enhance NAV and narrow the discount
- Evaluate one or more tender offers at NAV
- Consider other managers or alternative management arrangements
